Hero of Bus Tragedy Is Invited to Washington

President Hoover Invites 13-Year-Old Youth to Visit Him at White House Following Recent Heroic Deed in Colorado Storm

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Bryan Udell, the 13-year-old boy who was largely responsible for saving the lives of a number of school children in a blizzard at Tower, Colo., has been invited by President Hoover to be his guest at the White House.

President Hoover, upon returning from his trip to the Caribbean was impressed by the heroism of the boy after he had been left in charge of a school bus full of children by the driver, who sought help when the vehicle was stalled in the blizzard.

The president has communicated with the mother of Bryan, who has consented to his coming to Washington alone. Hospital authorities at Lamar, Colo., where the rescued children were taken, said Friday the boy would be able to travel within a week or 10 days.

Hoover was convinced by accounts of the boy's action that he would have no trouble making the trip to the capital alone.

When the school bus from the Pleasant Hill school at Tower, Colo., stalled in the raging blizzard of March 26, the driver, Carl Miller, went for help. He left Bryan in charge after solemnly warning him of the danger to himself and the other children.

Miller never returned. He froze to death trying to find help.

Bryan made every effort to keep his companions amused and active. He started boxing matches and other forms of entertainment, but as night fell the penetrating cold pressed in. One of the first to freeze was Bryan's brother, Orlo.

When airplanes found the bus, five of the children had frozen to death and the others including Bryan were suffering terrible agony.

Bryan had done all he could. He had removed his own clothing and placed it on the others.

State to Stop Loss in Ghost Mill Towns

New Arkansas Forestry Act Aims to Conserve Timber Supply—Star Correspondent Writes Story of How Union Saw Mill Company Established Perpetual Cut at Huttig, in Union County

HUTTIG, Ark.—(Special).—After years of delay, the recently adjourned legislature passed a bill creating a forestry commission for Arkansas, purpose of which, according to provisions of the act, is "prevention and suppression of forest fires, control of distribution of forest planting stock, gathering and dissemination of information concerning the growth, preservation and renewal of forests, and that the forests throughout the state may be perpetuated."

The bill, was signed by Governor Harvey Parnell and became immediately effective. It provides for a state forestry commission of five members to be composed of the dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Arkansas, the state commissioner of agriculture and three members to be appointed by the governor, which commission when formed shall have authority to employ a state forester who shall serve as secretary of the commission.

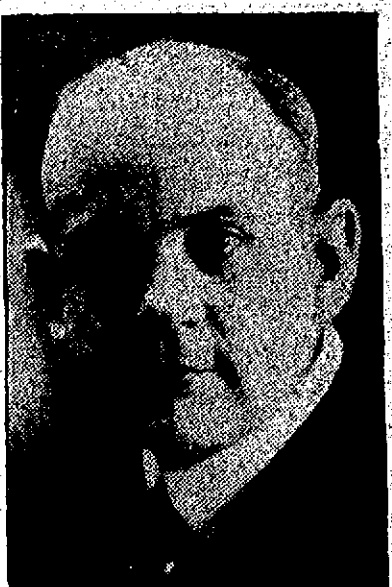

Louisiana has had a forestry commission for many years and is now foremost among Southern states in fire protection for and conservation of forests, Arkansas being one of the last of the 48 states to make a move for the preservation and perpetuation of its timber supply but it is now expected that activities of the commission will eventually restore some of the state's former prestige in the lumber industry.

Missouri Salesman Found Dead in Hotel Room at Fordyce

FORDYCE.—The body of C. E. Moore, aged 35, registered at St. Louis, Mo., but a resident of Campbell, Mo., was found in his room at the Kilgore hotel here Friday afternoon when hotel officials forced their way into the room. A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner's jury.

Moore left a note asking that his body and Eddy Company of St. Louis, had taken the cord from a reading lamp, tied one end around his neck and the other to the head of the bed and rolled off the bed. He strangled to death.

He was seen last at 8:30 Thursday night when a porter took his dinner to him in his room. The porter said that Moore remarked that he was feeling bad and that he was melancholy.

Former Arkansas Convict Arrested

John J. Edwards Charged With Plot to Pass Counterfeit Money

SEVER, Col.—(AP)—John J. Edwards, formerly of Arkansas and his 23-year-old step-son, William Himes, were arrested Friday by Rowland K. Goddard, chief of the Denver Secret Service and charged with conspiracy to pass counterfeit money.

In the ash pit in the rear of the home occupied by the two, Goddard found counterfeit molds and material used in the manufacture of spurious money.

Edwards served a three-year term in the Arkansas penitentiary for bigamy, having been sentenced from Little Rock. He had been married three times.

Dr. Dodd Begins 20 Years as Pastor

Services Followed Weekly By Radio Listeners Everywhere

Next Sunday morning, April 5, 1931 Dr. R. E. Dodd will begin his twentieth year as pastor of the First Baptist church of Shreveport. Over $2,000,000 has been raised for all purposes during this period and over 6,400 members added to the church.

The church building has been enlarged and remodeled to suit a growing city of 100,000 people, and a present membership of over 4,000 contrasts encouragingly with the little band of 300 members which greeted his first appearance nearly two decades ago. A similar encouragement is pointed out by John S. Ramond, Pastor's Assistant and Educational Director, in the contrast between the Sunday school then, of 175 members, and the present Educational organization of more than 2,700.

"The best is yet to be," seems to be still the motto of this veteran minister of Shreveport, whose year 1930 registered, perhaps the peak activity of this great church and pastor. During this last year Dr. Dodd traveled 20,000 miles to preach 220 times in the pulpits of churches in a dozen states, saw over 1,000 added to these churches, wrote two books "The Christ Whom We Worship" and "Missions Our Mission." During this year some 73 addresses were made, not including prayer meeting addresses, 20 funerals were held, 51 marriages were celebrated and 475 members added to his own church.

Vivaciously interested in every civic, social, religious, educational and political enterprise that has for its purpose the betterment of our city, Dr. Dodd has remained preeminent at his divinely ordained task of the ministry. Thousands wait upon his preaching Sunday morning and night, summer and winter and it is significant that at this anniversary he is again president of the Shreveport Ministerial Alliance, as well as president of Dal College for Girls here.

The newly wed couple were discussing their plans for a happy married life. "What would you do," he asked, "if I would get up in the morning with a grogginess as bad as a bear, and kick because the ham was cold?"

Canadian Tourist Trade Not Hurt By Slump

TORONTO, Ont.—(AP)—General depression apparently overlooked the tourist business in Ontario in 1930, it appears from official figures on tourist traffic, released by the Provincial Publicity office.

They reveal that 659,103 more tourists entered Ontario last year than in 1929. Altogether, 4,164,503 cars came into Canada at the various ports of entry.

More American cars entered Ontario at Windsor than at any other point. More than one-quarter of the Ontario-bound cars—1,430,554 to be exact—crossed the line at Windsor.

Rats Hinder Work of Mountain Linemen

SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK, Cal.—(AP)—Trade rats are still up to their ancient tricks, according to a crew of men constructing a telephone line in the high Sierras here.

The red cloths tied to marker sticks left over post holes disappeared over a stretch of more than a mile of prospective telephone line. The cloths finally were found in a trade rat nest, lining a nest made of a three-foot pile of leaves, twigs and sticks.

Brothers Is Found Guilty of Murder

Jury Recommends Fourteen Year Sentence for Lingle Slayer

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Leo V. Brothers of St. Louis was convicted Friday of assassinating Alfred (Jake) Lingle and the jury fixed his punishment at 14 years in prison.

After 27 hours of stormy debate, the sleepless 12 men came in to give Brothers, young St. Louis hoodlum, the lightest penalty under Illinois law for murder.

In this manner, half of the questions: "Who killed Jake Lingle—and why?" was answered to calm, for the time being, months of widespread conjecture since the Chicago Tribune scandal reported was assassinated.

A motion for a new trial was made at once by attorneys for the defense, who called the verdict a compromise. They will argue the point April 17 against a prosecution "satisfied that the verdict was just."

The end came with dramatic suddenness. Since 2:24 p. m., Thursday, the jury had been locked up. There had been no definite word of what was going on inside.

Judge Joseph Sabbath, beginning to despair of a verdict, had decided to call in the jurors and see what prospects were.

Suddenly, at 5:20 p. m., the sounds of argument ceased, the jury sent out word it had come to an agreement, the lawyers were summoned, Brothers brought in and the verdict read.

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Leo V. Brothers, otherwise known as Leo V. Bader, otherwise known as Buster, guilty of the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, and we fix his punishment at 14 years imprisonment," intoned the clerk.

There were a few gasps in the courtroom. Brothers, leaning on the witness stand, palmed a trifle and then said to a bailiff, "let's duck." The first big gang murder case to reach a Chicago jury was over.

The killing of Lingle, as he strolled through the pedestrian tunnel under busy Michigan boulevard last June 9, was one of the most spectacular city ever had known, and it aroused a public clamor that still is heard in the drive against Chicago's "public enemies."

Slayer of Sheriff in Atlanta Jail

Members of Posse Fire on Negro With Guns and Pistols

ATLANTA.—(AP)—Julius J. L. Milwain, early Saturday said Fred Griffin, 18, negro, had confessed to killing Sheriff Thomas W. Camp, at Fairburn Friday.

He is also said to have confessed his escape from the Morgan county chain gang where he was serving a 20-year sentence for murder.

Sheriff Camp was killed in a scuffle with the negro prisoner.

A posse captured Griffin after a long hunt through the forests and swamps.

"The negro fired one shot at the posse and was wounded several times by their return fire."

He was brought here both for hospital treatment and for safe keeping.

Sorority Girls Initiate Pledges in Cemetery

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—(AP)—In response to a riot call, police hurried to a cemetery here one night recently. Residents told arriving carloads of officers that "about a half dozen girls were screaming and that it sounded as though they were being gagged and kidnapped somewhere out in the cemetery."

Police found four girls, far back in the shadows, bound, gagged and lying on several tombs.

Investigation revealed that a prep school sorority was initiating pledges and "thought it a good stunt to blind the girls, gag them and put them on top of graves."

Soup For Breakfast? Yes, Says Star Cook

They use onions generously, goose fat, egg plants, and mussels. And a favorite dish with French sailors is 7sau's potage—containing a little of mussels, and in certain parts of Germany the roachfish is utilized in making soups.

Everything—onions, smoked sausage, lentils, rice or olive oil.

In the regions of the sun, soup enjoys the same popularity. The dish from North Africa, told to Miss Garrett by a boat cook, is made from cooking tomatoes, onions, mint, mutton and dried apricots. It is served with vermicelli. And a Russian novelty with a sturdy appetite proclaimed enthusiastically about Ukrainian beet-rot soup—which has to cook for four hours!

The many delicious recipes which Miss Garrett will demonstrate in her cooking school are as tasty as the tang of foreign dishes—and much more easily prepared. She will make use of the modern trend of efficiency in household work and demonstrate those dishes which may be cooked quickly and still maintain appraising qualities.

All the French are great for stews.

Attempted Burglary Frustrated at Stamps

STAMPS.—While a vacant house at the edge of the city limits was burning Wednesday night an attempt was made to rob the Walker Wholesale Grocery company. Parties passing the grocery company discovered the open door and 17 sacks of sugar on the loading dock. At their approach, the men inside the building ran and were not apprehended.

Goose Escapes New Owner; Flies Home

MANTECA, Cal.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles Coe, resident here, has discovered that the domestic goose has a strong homing instinct.

She bought a bird from Joe Vint at Atlanta, five miles distant, and took it home and penned it.

In the morning she found the goose gone. After a search she went to Vint's farm. She had been there only a few minutes when the goose flew in and joined the other fowls.

Police Dog Mourns Death of Army Officer

TORONTO, Ont.—(AP)—"Dusty," a police dog, was the inseparable companion of Captain James Kennedy, former officer of the Queen's Own Rifles, and Boer War veteran.

Unconscious at the death of his master, "Dusty" tried several times to jump into the casket beside Captain Kennedy's body before the funeral. Shut out of the room where his master's body lay, "Dusty" jumped upon the late captain's armchair and refused to move.

The net has been sent away temporarily.

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—(AP)—City Marshal Ed Bloomfield made a sudden appearance in one of the town's byways recently and discovered Alexander Glen, negro, handing a five dollar bill to J. A. Miller, of South Carolina, in exchange for a bottle of clear liquor.

Miller was fined $25 on a charge of fraud and lodged in jail for failure to pay.

Sing to the Risen King

Now Easter comes, and sun-bright days hold magic.
And soft winds toss a stronger, clear perfume.
And skies, star-spangled, bend a little lower.
There is no death, no one is in the tomb.

Who sometimes thought that every hope was gone,
There is a challenge in spring's resurrection,
Life wins again, the heart, by singing on!

First Baptist Church

W. A. Bowen, Pastor

A rare treat is in store at the First Baptist church Sunday at 7:45 p. m. for all lovers of sacred music. The hour will be devoted to the service of song. Many of the songs of the long ago, songs which have disappeared from the late song books, but songs which we still cherish in memory will be sung. There will be solos, quartets, and congregational singing. We should have a large attendance at Sunday school at 9:45. Teachers and officers will be glad to greet you. At 11 o'clock the pastor will speak on "Jesus, The Enricher of Life."

One Man Mine Owner to Conserve Supply

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah. (UP)—Lester Palmer, Gold Hill, Utah, is outstanding among his fellow miners. Owner of a rich gold mine which assays up to $1,200 a ton, Palmer has not only refused to sell his property but only mines just enough for a decent living.

Palmer's mine—known as the "One Man Mine"—is located near the Nevada line at Wendover, Utah. Twice a year he goes to his mine, sends several shipments of ore to a smelter and then lives comfortably on the proceeds.

Unusual Pear Tree Owned in Iowa

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UP)—Ed G. Debey claims to have a pear tree which is unique in horticulture. The tree is more than 50 feet high. It produces a crop of from 25 to 50 bushels. But the harvest is a fruit about the size of a man's fist, round, and without the characteristic protuberance near the stem which marks all other pear species.

The tree is about 100 years old, and none now living knows its origin.

Sharps and Flats

A Department In Which The Editor of The Star Plays His Own Piano

Bus Presley's speech on the Postoffice Service, delivered Friday at the Rotary luncheon, reminded C. S. Lowthorp of a story. He said a big country boy from the Kentucky hills went down to New Orleans on a visit, and liking the place so well, stayed a week. His mother worried over his prolonged absence, and wrote him a letter.

The New Orleans postoffice men looked long and hard at the envelope. It was addressed simply: "To my son Jim, New Orleans, La." The postal men laughed. The letter was their topic of conversation for a whole week.

But on Saturday night a big country boy from the Kentucky hills wandered in through the postoffice door, and looking earnestly at the General Delivery clerk said:

"Has my maw writ me yet?"

The Little Rock ministerial alliance announced plans last week to circulate a petition for a referendum on Act No. 80 of the last legislature—the 90-day divorce law.

The Rev. A. C. Miller, editor of the Arkansas Methodist, believes the referendum necessary on the grounds that a majority of Arkansas voters are indignant at the passage of the divorce law by the legislature.

In that, I agree with the Rev. Mr. Miller.

Public opinion, as I find it, was disturbed by the legislature's action. But I doubt whether it will justify the spending of the amount of money necessary to have this measure printed on the state ballot the fall of 1932 and duly advertised in all the newspapers.

It cost the taxpayers of Arkansas $37,000 to print and advertise the divorce proposals that were offered in the general election last November. The Star got around $350 as its share of the legal publication expense. But I say in all sincerity that it was a waste of money, that the people were taxed for the sole purpose of further confusing themselves, and I opposed all of the new measures last fall with the express hope of discouraging law-making that is carried on outside of the legislature and at great additional expense to the people. The fact that my newspaper got some of that money makes no difference. The law compels the proposals to be published in each of the 75 counties. But no paper wants business which serves no good purpose yet levies an additional tax on the people.

We are going to hear more about the referendum on the 90-day divorce bill. I think The Star is going to have to write a great many editorials to make its position clear. I agree with Dr. Miller that the law is contrary to the majority opinion of the state—but unlike him I believe that it is sound law and good political economy, especially in these depressed times, to require that our law-making be confined to the legislature. The passage of the divorce act should be discussed on the stump in 1932, when we are electing the legislature which is to serve in 1933.

I opposed the initiated measures of the Arkansas Taxpayers' association last fall—and if a newspaper can fight the allied business interests of the state on a broad principle of good government, then certainly it is entitled to challenge the churches on the same principle.

Civil War Veteran Plans Own Funeral

ROCK RAPIDS, Ia. (UP)—James I. Taylor has arranged for his own funeral. He is not expecting sudden death, but believes in doing things himself.

Taylor has selected his coffin, made funeral arrangements with the undertaker, named his pallbearers and submitted to his minister an obituary on which to base the funeral sermon.

Taylor is 87 and claims he has not needed medical attention for 60 years.

Handkerchief Recalls Old Election Slogan

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Recollections of the famous presidential campaign slogan "Tippecanoe and Tyler, too," were revived here when a historic handkerchief was presented to the Frankford Historical Society.

The handkerchief, elaborately decorated with pictures of General William Henry Harrison on horseback, was made in Easton, Pa., nearly a century ago by Isaac Whittier, who was one of the first men in America to produce printed cotton.

The donor was Frances Wendell Trout, granddaughter of Wendell, a granddaughter, too, of John Green Whittier's sister.
